Rye. ~~REFORM CLUB,~~
PALL MALL S.W. 1906.

Dear Mr. Sumner.

I am very, very
sorry about the
second House, for

I had, I confess, a
quaking hope that it would still ^{capture} you in spite of its
number of words.

And I'm afraid
that Melia's Bride
won't have mended
my case; I take
for granted that
you can do no better
for her than for her sister. Will
you therefore kindly
return me the two copies? I must try to see what I afford. Not to do this, & when that is the case it is ^{unavoidable} ~~unavoidable~~ difficult to say any more idea is to that a space of ^{time} occasionally arrived at it has this has been only at the repeated explanation of the same.

→ & I had framed
it as cunningly
as possible to that
end. I have to consider, in writing a
short tale, the importance of taking some little idea as subject ^{that}
will be do some
positive credit
→ I can't well
